Goals:

As a Director of MARIS, my goals are deeply rooted in my extensive four-decade experience in the St. Louis residential real estate sector. Having previously served as a MARIS director for ten years, I am uniquely equipped to navigate the complexities and challenges our industry faces today, especially in light of the Sitzer decision as well as other pending litigation.

My primary objective is to guide MARIS towards making informed decisions that safeguard our organization, shareholders, and members from undue liabilities and risks. Concurrently, I am committed to steering MARIS in a direction that not only serves the interests of our industry but also ensures its central role in transactions for both agents and consumers.

By leveraging my seasoned perspective and proactive approach, I aim to help MARIS thrive amidst evolving market conditions and regulatory landscapes, securing its future at the heart of our industry.
